Bull Bar Design and Engineering

We design the bull bars and protection systems from engineering data, customer's requirement and orientation. We consider numbers of design factors from vehicles original specification including air bags issue to user's functionality and requirement. Selection of material, accessory parts and component are incorporated into the design before going into the production. The bars are built and tested according to the international standard. KSC investment in product development is always priority. Production technology has regularly been updated and upgraded to make sure bars are built with quality and craftsmanship.
